I have one brother and we get on very well with each other. We always play together and we have many things in common. When we were kids, my brother Sam and I loved reading adventure books about explorers and pirates. We always dreamed of going on an adventure journey in the forest. One day, when I was ten and Sam was eight, we set out to the woods behind our house. We packed our knapsacks and we set off at 7am. We saw birds, squirrels and even a deer. It was hot and sunny. So, we decided to build a makeshift camp so that we can sit in it to eat our sandwiches and relax. We were so excited and having so much fun that we forgot about the time. Suddenly we heard a loud sound that made us jump. We carefully went towards it to see what it was. To our surprise, it was our parents' car! As soon as they saw us, they shouted and we ran towards them. They hugged us but said they were angry with us. By then, it was 5 o'clock in the afternoon. We said we were sorry and promised them not to do anything like that again. We drove home in silence and our parents punished us . We didn't get out of our room for a week. But we learned a valuable lesson " It's great fun to explore but you have to think about other people". Our parents were terribly frightened that day.

Our planet Earth is in danger. Write an article in your school magazine to encourage your schoolmates to do things to help save it.

--- Save our planet Earth ---

- Planet Earth is our home. We live on it. We breathe its air, we drink its water and eat from its land. However, our planet is facing a big danger: pollution. Actually pollution poses a danger to the planet as well as to our health. That's why we should all make an effort in order to save it. First, we should pick rubbish up and put it in litter cans. Second, we should walk short distances and use public transport for long distances. Then, we should switch off lights when not needed and turn off the tap when we brush teeth or do the washing up. Besides, we can organize cleaning campaigns to make others aware of the importance of a clean environment. Finally, we should recycle plastic bags, plastic bottles and cans..

Let's all make an effort and make our planet a better place to live in for us and for the future generations.

The Text

Dear advice columnist,

My brother Tom is 9 and I'm 14. My brother and I always fight over taking my toys, hitting me and messing my room. Whenever he does something wrong, he is never punished. When I do this kind of stuff, my parents get upset and punish me severely and this is not fair. I tried talking to my parents but it was in vain. I don't know what to do. Even though we have three computers in the house, my brother insists on using mine. I always try to be nice with him but he just doesn't stop getting on my nerves, especially when my friends come to visit me, he keeps on calling me names, making faces to them or throwing his pillow at us. He is making my life a hell. I have no one to turn to. My grandmother who always used to help me is dead. What should I do? Please help me

Yours,
Kate

How can Kate get on well with her brother and her parents?

Write a letter to give her some pieces of advice.

Dear Kate,

I'm writing to help you get on well with your family. First, you should discuss your problem with your parents and tell them how you feel. Second, you should try to explain to your brother that he should be nice and kind with you because you are older than him. Then, why not play with your brother and share things with him. After all he is a little child and wants you to keep him company. He needs you in all times. Finally, you should love and cherish your brother because siblings are a gift from God. I hope that you will solve your problem with your family and get along with them.
